Big Still Captured In Menefee County

Shiners Surprised by Officers, Who Were placed Under Arrest and Brought to This City

Federal Prohibition Officers G. L. Hannen and Neale Guilfoile, assisted by several deputies captured and destroyed one of the largest stills ever located in this section Wednesday, when the moonshiners, Jeff Ballard and his two sons, Bob and Albert, were taken by surprise by the officers. The still was located on the East Fork of Slate Creek, and was an underground affair about 25 feet square. It was so well camouflaged as to be unnoticed 25 feet distant. There was a trap door leading to same, well hidden under brush with another entrance which could be used to make a "get-away." The still was reported by the officers as being as dry as a powder house and one of the best equipped they had ever seen. The still house and contents, which were destroyed by the officers, contained the following: 150-gallon copper still, 16 fifty-barrel fermenters, 7 thirty-gallon fermenters, 50-gallon flake stand, 1,200 gallons beer, 1 pumping keg, 1 stove, 1 two-inch 8-coil worm, 2 chairs, 2 lamps, 1 saw, 1 axe, 1,000 gallons slop, 3 five-gallon jugs, 25 cotton bags, 100 pounds chop, 1 still cap.

The men arrested were brought to this city and placed in the county jail and will have their examining trial before U. S. Commissioner W. H. Wood tomorrow morning.

DELEGATES FROM KENTUCKY

The delegates appointed at the Republican Convention in Louisville were: Governor Edwin P. Morrow, A. T. Hert, Mrs. John G. South and Dr. S. H. George, negro. This big four is to represent Kentucky Republicans in the National Republican Convention that meets in Chicago next June.

FARM RENTED

W. Hoffman Wood, the real estate agent, rented to the highest bidder at the Court House door Saturday the S. S. Estill farm of 102 acres near Ewington to Henderson Phipps for the period of one year for $1,510. An increase over the rental price of last year.

MOTHER OF REV. WILSON DIES IN SHELBY COUNTY

Mrs. T. D. Wilson, mother of Rev. J. S. Wilson, former pastor of the Mt. Sterling Baptist church, passed to rest on Monday. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Rev. J. S. Wilson and William Wilson. Mrs. Wilson was a frequent visitor here where she had many friends. She was numbered among the best of women. An active worker in her church, the Baptist church at Bagdad. In this work as friend, wife and mother she will be greatly missed and while her going makes this world poorer it makes Heaven richer.

ALIENATION SUIT FOR $100,000

In Paris a suit asking for damages in the sum of $100,000 for alleged alienation of affections of her husband, Douglas K. Clay, has been filed in the Bourbon Circuit Court by Mrs. Jane Adams Clay against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sallie Norman Clay, of Paris. A suit for divorce from Douglas Clay had previously been filed the petition alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. Mrs. Douglas Clay is at present at the home of her parents in Frankfort. The amount asked for in the suit for alienation is said to be the largest ever presented in a similar action in the Bourbon court.

HORRIBLE DEATH

Wednesday morning Viola Gilbert, seven-year-old daughter of J. L. and Hattie Gilbert, who live in the Grassy Lick neighborhood, came in from the yard and turned her back to the fire, when her clothing was ignited and before help could reach her was so badly burned that death gave relief before a physician could reach her. It was a most horrible death.

Funeral service was conducted at the home this morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. J. S. Ragan and burial was in the Wade grave yard.

MARRY IN LEXINGTON

Miss Stella Hinson, the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hinson, of this county, was married in Lexington last week to Millard B. May, a prominent farmer of Bath county. The couple will reside on Mr. May's farm near Owingsville.

And with it comes the natural desire of every woman to brighten her home with fresh Wall Paper and Paint.

We are exclusive agents for the celebrated Niagara Guaranteed Wall Paper and can truthfully say that our 1920 line is the prettiest and most extensive we have ever shown, and the prices are but very little higher than last season. This is due to the fact that our papers were contracted for last fall direct from the mills. There have been heavy advances since that time and these papers would be at least 50 per cent. higher if bought on today's market.

Our celebrated Red, White and Blue Brand of Ready Mixed House Paint has stood the test of time and the many satisfied users are the best guarantee of its quality.

Why pay $5 per gallon for Paint when we can furnish it for only $3.25.

Dr. Samuel Johnson said: "The trade of advertising is so near perfection that it is not easy to propose any improvement." With all due respect to the esteemed Doctor, we wonder what he would say were it possible for him to see how advertising is done today and to learn how much is expended annually. We'll wager that Wm. Wrigley, Jr., spends more annually in advertising Spearmint than all of England spent during Dr. Johnson's life.

And That Is Not All

There is still room for improvement in advertising. We can still show the merchant how to spend his money for publicity more wisely. This is a part of our job as a sales force.

ADDRESSES FILSON CLUB

Lewis Killpatrick, of this city, appeared before the Filson Club Monday night in the Public Library at Louisville and lectured on William Calk and his trip to Kentucky in 1776. This pioneer kept a journal in which he recorded with a touch of humor many hardships and romances that were experienced by him and his men. Mr. Killpatrick read the original document and also gave a short story of the writer's life which he compiled after much research.

Roosevelt, commenting on the journal, said it was the most valuable document bearing on early pioneer days in Kentucky. The journal has not heretofore been presented in full, nor has any historian ever written a sketch of this almost forgotten pioneer who laid out the town of Boonesboro. The address was listened to by a good crowd.

MR. KILLPATRICK

Mr. Killpatrick, as author and lecturer, has a brilliant future before him, and it is with much pride that Mt. Sterling claims him as her own.

WAIVES TRIAL

Lane Clark, of this city, arrested several days ago on a charge of violating the prohibition laws, was brought before U. S. Commissioner W. Hoffman Wood this morning. Clark waived his examining trial and was released under bond to appear before Judge Cochran in Frankfort, March 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele and family of Steptown, who recently sold their farm, have purchased land near Miamiville, Ohio, and have gone there to make their future home.

BECKONING HANDS

ENDORSE TOWNSMAN

A paragraph in the resolutions of the county Republicans at the Court House on last Saturday is as follows:

Believing that the Republican party has an excellent chance to elect a member of Congress from the Ninth Congressional District to the National House of Representatives at the election in 1920, we, the Republicans of Montgomery county, desire to present to the Republicans of the Ninth Congressional District the name of Judge H. Clay McKee, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., as a suitable candidate for the Congressional nomination for Congress in the Ninth Congressional District. Judge McKee is a good lawyer, a loyal and uncompromising Republicans, a speaker of ability, and a good mixer, and we believe that should he be nominated he can make a winning race. We hope that the Republicans will give Judge McKee this nomination, because we believe in his strength and courage to go on the stump and plead the cause of Republicanism in a way that will bring strength to the ticket in said Ninth District.

REPUBLICANS CONDEMN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

At the Republican State Convention, now in session in Louisville, the League of Nations was condemned and the party went on record as strongly opposed to same. The Hert element of the party is in absolute control. A large number of delegates are present, including B. W. Hall and Judge H. C. McKee, from this city. The Republicans seem to be trying to force themselves into the belief that they really have a chance to carry Kentucky in the next National campaign.

EDUCATION'S AID

The days when a college education was possible only for the rich man's son or daughter have gone by. The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church as one of its activities is showing the boys and girls of America that every young man and woman with energy, character and determination can base his or her life work on the sound foundation of a classical or technical degree from a recognized institution of learning. This work of the league is being accomplished with the aid of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department. Boys and girls all over America are being enrolled in College clubs, the object of which is to aid the members to secure money for a college education by means of saving and investment in government securities such as War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. These securities not only hold educational funds safe, but return excellent profits in the shape of interest and may be gauged so that they mature at such times as to effectively meet collegiate demands.

AT ABSOLUTE AUCTION TUESDAY, MARCH 9, 1920.

AT 10:00 A. M., RAIN OR SHINE
LIVE STOCK, IMPLEMENTS AND FEED

In order to settle up the estate of the late Newton Button, deceased, the heirs, Albert D. Button, Robert A. Button and Virginia LaMaster have placed this farm in our hands to be sold at Absolute Auction. This farm is limestone soil and is known to be one of the best blue grass and tobacco farms in Oldham county.

SEVENTY-FIVE ACRES OF BOTTOM LAND

This farm is located one-fourth mile west of LaGrange and Sligo pike, bordering on the waters of Harrod's Creek, in half mile of church and school.

This farm is to be subdivided in two tracts and will be sold in separate tracts, afterwards as a whole, the highest bid or bids being accepted.

LIBERAL TERMS WILL BE ANNOUNCED AT SALE

TRACT NO. 1—About 230 Acres—Improvements consist of one frame, two-story residence; one new bungalow; meat house, poultry house, fine well at dwelling, one extra good stock barn, 50x76, metal roof; one tobacco barn, large crib and granary with four sheds. Creek runs through this tract, with 30 acres creek bottom land; 35 acres in orchard grass and clover; 29 acres to be sown in orchard grass and clover before date of sale; 50 acres in timber, balance in blue grass. This is limestone land. Seventy-five per cent of this is first-class tobacco land. Seven never failing springs.

TRACT NO. 2—About 180 Acres—45 acres Harrod's Creek bottom land; 31 acres to be sown in grass by date of sale; 35 acres for cultivation of corn and tobacco; balance in blue grass and clover. There are logs at yard on farm for 36x100 barn. This tract is watered by creek running water and one well. This tract is within 160 rods of the proposed federal road.

There will positively be no by-bidders. The heirs have signed a contract to sell, regardless of price.

BETTER HOGS AND BETTER FEEDING

There are two factors in connection with the hog business which are always of extreme importance.

One is the quality of hogs fed, and the other, quality of feeding done. However, under the unfortunate conditions of high priced feed and low priced hogs, which have existed during the past six months, the two factors mentioned have become even more important than before. In other words, the man who has fed good hogs and has done good feeding has been able to pull through the hog market slump, so far, in fairly good shape; but the farmer who has been feeding an inferior grade of hogs in a common, inefficient way, has lost money, and the more hogs he has fed the more money he has lost. There never has been a stronger argument for better hogs and better feeding than the experience of the past six months.

It is impossible to say too much in favor of better hogs. In fact, quality in all classes of livestock is of extreme importance, good quality often being responsible for the difference between profit and loss in the feed lot. Good hogs are more efficient users of feed than poor ones; that is, any certain amount of feed put into good hogs will make more pork than if fed to poor ones. In some way, which is difficult to explain, the good hog is able to digest, assimilate and store in the form of flesh in its own body, a greater proportion of the materials from the feed than the inferior animal.

In this connection, mention should be made of the boar and his importance as a sire. The present day slogan is "Use a pure bred boar." This should be changed slightly. The slogan should be "Use a Good pure bred boar." There are pure bred scrubs (this applies to all classes of animals), as well as other kinds of scrubs. The fact that a boar is pure bred, even though he may be registered, does not mean that he is necessarily a good animal or a good sire. A good, pure bred boar is the kind to seek and the kind that sows should be mated with. A common boar should be given no consideration as a breeder. The quicker he is sent to the shambles the better.

The above discussion relative to better hogs is very true and highly important, and yet it will benefit a man but little to get better hogs if he will not feed them properly. The two—better hogs and better feeding—must go hand in hand, for best results. On the whole, hogs are not fed as well as they could be with but little extra effort and actually less expense. This is quite true in some sections of Kentucky, especially in the Eastern part. It is safe to say that much pork produced on our Eastern Kentucky farms is produced at an actual loss, costing farmers more than it would to buy it.

Corn, mast, kitchen waste and grass are the feeds commonly depended upon in Eastern Kentucky for the production of pork. None of these contain much protein and mineral matter—those materials in feeds which produce bone and muscle, or, in other words, make the animal grow. Certain proportions of protein and mineral matter are absolutely necessary in rations for hogs to produce satisfactory growth and development. The younger the animal the greater are the proportions of these two materials necessary in the ration. Fattening hogs need but a small amount.

To supply sufficient amounts of protein and mineral matter is undoubtedly one of the outstanding problems in feeding hogs in Eastern Kentucky. Probably the very best answer to that problem is tankage.

Tankage is a highly concentrated feed, containing large proportions of protein and mineral matter. It combines to excellent advantage with feeds which are deficient in these two materials. For example, excellent results are obtained from feeding corn and tankage when properly mixed.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station recommends the following proportions of corn and tankage in mixtures for hogs of different weights:

Hogs weighing 30 to 100 lbs., 100 lbs. corn, shelled; 10 lbs. tankage.

Hogs weighing 100 to 175 lbs., 100 lbs. corn, shelled, 8 lbs tankage.

Hogs weighing 175 to 250 lbs., 100 lbs. corn, shelled, 7 lbs. tankage.

At about 4 per cent. of the live weight of a hog in grain feed per day is considered a full feed; that is, for example, a 50-lb pig should get about 2 pounds of the corn and tankage mixture, mixed in proper proportions for a pig of that weight (as shown above), per day. A 100-lb. shoat should get about 4 pounds of the mixture per day, etc. If the hogs are running on good pasture the amount of grain feed per day can be reduced to 2 1-2 to 3 per cent. of their weight.

Year in and year out, as a permanent proposition, hog raising is a good business. It is the man who gets in and stays in who makes the business a study, paying attention to details, feeding good hogs and feeding them properly, who prospers. The man who does not appreciate the necessity of doing these things will do better to devote his energies to some other business.

FROM CHILDREN'S MOUTHS

Here's a Lot of Real Wisdom Uttered By Pittsburgh Youngsters

Over thirty-five thousand precepts of thrift were submitted recently in a contest among Pittsburgh school children for the best slogans to encourage sales of Thrift Stamps and War Savings Stamps. One hundred and sixty-six of the slogans won prizes aggregating $500. The children, who ranged in ages from 9 to 14, gathered their material from a wide variety of sources.

The slogan which won the highest prize, written by Raymond Loxterman, aged 11, emphasized the safety of the government securities and the wisdom of holding them to maturity. His contribution was:

"W. S. S. are good as gold—"

"Best to have and best to hold."

Ruth Miller, aged 12, winner of the second prize made it clear that Thrift is not miserliness. Her slogan read: "Thrift doesn't mean do without—It means do with less. Buy W. S. S."

"Thrift today means wealth tomorrow," by Minerva Demetrius, 14 won third prize.

Some of the other slogans were: "Cut out candy, movies and their vamps; Invest your money in War Savings Stamps;" "Some rainy day you'll need a lift; then you'll be glad you practiced thrift;" "Sow your pennies now and reap your reward afterward;" "Stamp thrift cures spend thrift."

FILE YOUR TAX REPORT

The Collector of Internal Revenue at Louisville, Ky., on February 20, 1920, issued the following statement with reference to the small number of income tax returns being filed this year:

"With approximately three weeks left in which individuals have to file their income tax returns for the year 1919, it is obvious from the small number of returns filed in this office up to the present time that this will be the banner year for delinquents.

"Realizing this fact I will, on the 16th of March, be compelled to start a vigorous investigation of all delinquents who failed to file their returns on or before March 15, 1920.

"I take this opportunity to notify all persons liable to make return that the full penalties, which are severe, will be invoked in every case.

"The income tax law has been in existence long enough for individuals to understand its primary requirements with reference to filing returns, and the Collector's office will be constrained to enforce all penalties provided in the law against all persons who have for any reason failed or refused to file their returns on or before the due date.

"Trouble and annoyance can be saved to all persons and to the government as well, if all taxpayers that are liable to make returns will do so at once."

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

William Mather Lewis Pays Tribute to the Newspaper Men of the Country

"But the most universal agency in spreading the message of the Thrift and Savings Movement has been the Press. In metropolitan daily and in country weekly have appeared uncensored news columns and editorial articles. The patriotic service of those who direct the policy of the American Press has never yet received its due praise, and in winning the nation away from wastefulness there is but given an added demonstration of high purpose and broad vision."

The above paragraph is taken from an address delivered by William Mather Lewis, director of the Savings Division, Treasury Department. The Eighth Federal Reserve District, which is among the leaders in the sale of Treasury Savings Certificates and War Savings Stamps, could not have made the splendid record it did, had not the press of Missouri, Arkansas and Kentucky given the support it has. In the Liberty Loan campaigns this district was always first to go "over the top" and it is keeping up its reputation.

Like the leaves on trees, the race of man is found,
Now green in youth, now withering on the ground;
Another race the following spring supplies,
They fall successive, and successive rise;
So generations, in their course, decay,
So flourish these, when those are passed away.

Something to worry about: There is a truth upon this page, and these here lines reveal it: A woman hates to look her age—a feller hates to feel it.

Why is it that men who despise other things that are second-hand, will feel proud of a second-hand wife?

Get up old hoss! Of course, there's very little class to men when they are needy. And when a feller goes to grass, he's certain to look seedy.

You will have your time and chance, When you see the dollars dance; Then it is you'll hear the call: "Come in, fellers! Hands 'round all!"

GOOD ROADS

"Faith without works is dead." There is a faith of struggle and a faith of repose. All men who read and view the wonder movement in the good roads efforts the country over, see the coming tide, see it by faith, but if we would reap liberally there must be a faith joined with struggle. If the roads cost much the greater will be the struggle. The roads are the one object greatly needed, and the better they are the more they will cost. There is nothing too good for our country people. They have money now, are tired of the hand-me-down, and propose to dress up in tailor-mades, and go to meeting in Kentucky over the very best roads and by motor power. It has not always been this way, but it is, now. Faith and struggle wins the best.

HIGH COST IN BRAIN DEVELOPMENT

Writers of note are confronted with problems the solution of which become a makeup in the high cost of living. Starve the brain and those who would develop into masters, become literary dwarfs. This is illustrated by writers of high and valuable merit, whose productions are being named at high prices, hence fewer books will be sold, readers and students will be reduced to a minimum, and the world becomes poorer in a literary sense, reconstruction periods will lose able exponents, and the depth of thought and polish, due to careful study, will be lacking. These conditions, up to now, are unobserved dangers, these higher prices. These conditions apply to all nations of letters.

AT THE GOLDEN GATE

(Published by request in the hope that it might encourage some poor hen-pecked man).

St. Peter stood guard at the Golden Gate with a solemn mien and air sedate, when up to the top of the Golden Stair, a man and a woman, ascending there, applied for admission. They came and stood before St. Peter so great and good, in hope that the city of peace to win—and asked St. Peter to let them in.

The woman was tall and lank, and thin, with a scraggy beardlet upon her chin. The man was short and thick and stout, his stomach was built so it rounded out, his face was pleasant and all the while he wore a kindly and genial smile. The hours in the distance the echoes woke, and the man kept still while the woman spoke.

"O, thou who guardest the gate," said she, "we two come hither, beseeching thee to let us enter the heavenly land, and play our harps with the angel band. Of Me, St. Peter, there is no doubt, there's nothing from Heaven to bar me out. I've been to meeting three times a week, and almost always I'd rise and speak.

"I've told the sinners about the day, when they'd repent of their evil way. I've told my neighbors—I've told 'em all 'bout Adam and Eve and the primal fall; I've shown them what they'd have to do if they'd pass with the chosen few; I've marked their paths of duty clear, laid out the plan for their whole career.

"I've talked and talked to 'em loud and long, for my lungs are good and my voice is strong; so, good St. Peter, you'll clearly see, the gate of Heaven is open for me. But my old man, I regret to say, hasn't walked in exactly the narrow way. He smokes and he swears, and grave faults he's got, and I don't know whether he'll pass or not.

"He never would pray with an earnest vim, or go to revival or join in a hymn; so I had to leave him in sorrow there, while I, with the chosen united in prayer. He ate what the pantry chanced to afford, while I, in my purity, sang to the Lord; and if cucumbers were all he got it's a chance if he merited them or not.

"But oh, St. Peter, I love him so! to the pleasures of Heaven please let him go; I've done enough—a saint I've been—won't that atone? Can't you let him in? By my grim gospel I know 'tis so, that the unrepentant must fry below; but isn't there some way you can see that he may enter, who's dear to me?

"It's a narrow gospel by which I pray, but the chosen expect to find a way of coaxing, or fooling or bribing you, so their relations can amble through. And say, St. Peter, it seems to me this gate isn't kept as it ought to be; you ought to stand right by the opening there, and never sit down in that easy chair.

"And say, St. Peter, My sight is dimmed, but I don't like the way your whiskers are trimmed; they're cut too wide and outward toss—they'd look better narrow, cut straight across. Well, we must be going our crowns to win, so open, St. Peter and we'll pass in."

St. Peter sat quiet and stroked his staff, but spite of his office he had to laugh; then he said, with a fiery gleam in his eye, "Who's tending this gateway, you or I?" And then he rose in his stature tall, and pressed a button upon the wall, and said to the imp who answered the bell, "Escort this lady around to—"

The man stood still as a piece of stone—stood sadly, gloomily, there alone. A lifelong settled idea he had, that his wife was good and he was bad. He thought if the woman went down below, that he would certainly have to go; that if she went to the regions dim, there wasn't a ghost of a chance for him.

Slowly he turned, by habit bent, to follow wherever the woman went. St. Peter, standing on duty there, observed that the top of his head was bare; he called the gentleman back and said, "Friend, how long have you been wed?" "Thirty years" (with a weary sigh), and then he thoughtfully added, "Why?"

St. Peter was silent. With head bent down he raised his head and scratched his crown; then seeming a different thought to take, slowly, half to himself, he spoke: "Thirty years with that woman there—no wonder the man hasn't any hair! Swearing is wicked, smoke's not good; he smoked and swore—I should think he would!

"Thirty years with that tongue so sharp, Ho, Angel Gabriel! Give him a harp! A jeweled harp with a golden string, good, sir, pass in where the angels sing. Gabriel, give him a seat alone—one with a cushion up near the throne! Call up some angels to sing their best, let him enjoy the music and rest!

"See that on finest ambrosia he feeds, he's had about all the Hades he needs; it isn't hardly the thing to do, to roast him on earth and in the future, too."

They gave him a harp with golden strings, a glittering robe and a pair of wings; and he said, as he entered the Realm of Day, "Well, this beats cucumbers any way." And so the scriptures had come to pass, that the last shall be first and the first shall be last.

BEADING AND BRAID ON SPRING FROCK

Beaded braid on the new spring-weight charmeuse is the feature of this new one-piece dress, the belt being only a 'camouflage' for the roll to the drape in the skirt. The black and white check in wool worsted is used for the skirt material. The turban is of velvet and straw.

DOUGLAS MCLEAN IS LATEST STAR TO MAKE HIS DEBUT

Talented Young Actor Makes First Appearance in Stellar Role in

"23 1/2 Hours' Leave"

After several years of notable work in support of numerous stage and screen stars, Douglas McLean has at last come into his own and has been elevated to stardom by Thomas H. Ince. He will appear with Doris May in the new Ince picture, "23 1/2 Hours' Leave," the attraction at the Tabb Theatre next Thursday, March 11th.

Dorothy Dalton, Enid Bennett, Mary Pickford and Alice Brady on the screen and Maude Adams, Margaret Anglin and Marjorie Rambeau on the stage are only a few of the luminaries opposite whom Mr. McLean has appeared during his career. His first stage work was with Maude Adams in a Barrie play called "Rosalind," and he supported the same actress later in "Peter Pan." After an extensive experience in the legitimate he deserted the boards for the screen and under the direction of Mr. Ince has developed into a motion picture player of the first rank. He will be co-starred with Miss May in six pictures during the current season adapted from famous magazine stories.

It isn't because General Grant's face is on the $10.00 bills that we are so familiar with the features of the Civil War leader.

PUBLIC AUCTION

Handsome Suburban Home

As agent for L. B. Greene, I will offer for sale at the Courthouse door, Mt. Sterling, Ky., at the hour of one o'clock, P. M., on his handsome suburban home and large grounds, lying one mile from the Courthouse on the Grassy Lick pike. The residence is two-story frame, containing 7 rooms, 2 halls, two porches, pantry, closets, cellar and is well built and in good condition. The residence is located on a beautiful lot, fronting on the pike about 250 feet, and has a depth of about 225 feet to a road in the rear. There is a good garden spot, some fruit, and delightful strawberry bed. An excellent cistern, good meat house and hen house is in the yard. At the same time I will offer a beautiful building lot, 50x225 feet, one of the handsomest in Greene Court, and with an excellent frontage on the pike. The property will first be offered in two tracts and then as a whole. Possession will be given immediately, and the terms will be one-third cash, when contract for deed is made, and the balance due and payable in two equal payments, of one year each, bearing six per cent. interest or purchaser can pay as much more as he desires.

Here is your opportunity to buy an excellent suburban home under the hammer, and the property is one of the most desirable in the county, being close to schools and churches and business center, and only short distance from city water and natural gas.

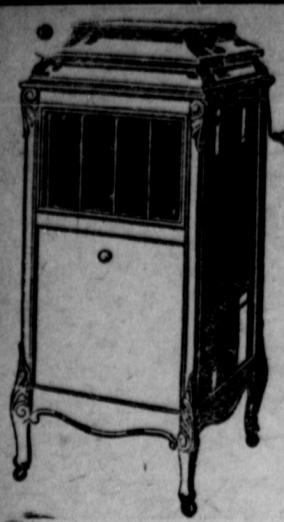

If you want something real good, this is your chance

Aids to Grace and Beauty

by Priscilla Dean

PRISCILLA DEAN

We have been told that appearance is deceitful. In my opinion that is a mis-statement. Appearances are deceitful only when they are deliberately meant to deceive. The average individual who lives a normal life in a normal manner without pretense or artificiality in the way of dress or manners is as easy to read as a book. The external appearance of the person, who is not consciously playing a part, invariably tells a great deal about the mental processes and habits of the individual.

Shop keepers dress their windows to show the kind of goods carried in stock. In the same degree the dress, grooming, manners and carriage represent a person's character. Attention to these details does not indicate vanity, but ambition and self-respect. A careless, untidy person may be more vain than one who devotes a great deal of time to clothes and personal appearance.

In cities this fact is recognized more than anywhere else. The fight for existence makes it necessary. Young people learn early the importance of making a good appearance. They sense the fact, even if it has never been taught them, that their abilities are appraised and characters read by the evidence of their appearance and demeanor. Looks and poise, therefore, have a real commercial value in every day business life. The person who is properly dressed and neatly groomed conveys a pleasing impression of success and efficiency.

To have the hair dressed too elaborately and the clothes extravagant and unsuitable for the time or place is just as much a mistake as to appear untidy and disheveled.

One owes it to oneself as well as to those with whom one is associated, to always look one's best. In order to do this, it is not necessary to appear at nine o'clock in the morning as if prepared for a dinner-dance or a rehearsal under strong calcium lights. Neither is it doing justice to oneself or one's friends to go to the other extreme and ignore social customs to the extent of wearing business clothes and looking out of place and unconventional upon formal occasions.

The woman who is naturally beautiful should be thankful. Her beauty, however, will not last unless given proper care. Anyone who possesses an article of value and realizes its worth, is never unwilling to take proper precautions to guard that possession. So women who are graceful and beautiful by nature have every reason to make a study of those methods which are considered best for the preservation of beauty. And other women, less beautiful, but who invariably possess one or more pleasing features, will find the time well spent that is given to the development of grace and beauty to as great an extent as their limitations will permit.

That is why I am taking such a special interest in these beauty talks. I believe they can be made really helpful. I shall even try to answer personal letters whenever possible.

born of personal experience and observation. If questions asked me are beyond that gamut I will quote only the very best authorities, when replying.

I have already been asked if I am going to have a series of talks upon each subject in turn, or if I am going to vary the monotony by considering the complexion, the hair, the eyes and other features at irregular intervals. I have decided upon the latter course, because I believe in that manner I can be of the greatest help to the greater number of my friends.

Later, I want to discuss the special benefit in the way of grace and beauty which may be derived from various sports. Personally, I am devoted to out-of-door sports. They keep one lithesome, graceful and in good health. Given health and a good digestion as a basis, the average woman has no excuse for ever appearing awkward, ill at ease or unlovely.

And that reminds me, I wanted to mention the importance of a good digestion. I never saw, and I don't think you ever saw a beautiful dyspeptic. And digestion, I am told, is largely dependent upon a pleasant mental frame of mind and a cheery atmosphere, free from criticism.

Meal time should be made pleasant if a family is to begin beauty culture. I have seen young girls who would almost rather miss their meals than endure the steady flow of comment and criticism directed toward them by those very members of the household most anxious for their improvement. I have known girls who became angry and resentful of that system of beauty culture and others more sensitive, who cried and became doubly awkward and self-conscious as a result of the treatment. No woman whose face is fretful and querulous during meal time will find the cultivation of beauty an easy task.

Nevertheless, while there is life, there is hope. Next week I shall take up the subject of beautiful hair and the best means for promoting its growth.

The Advocate, twice a week.

BRIGHT STRAWS OF SPRING AGAIN SMALL

Dame Fashion says she has no set or regular rules—still she has. And it's the small hat—the first showing in either spring or fall models which bears out this statement. These two pleasing spring hats, the upper of straw braid, the lower bright-hued straw and with the over-bright buds of spring as trimming, are newest models in the metropolitan shops. Satin and taffeta are used quite generally with the straw braids, the tailored models in particular leaning to the combination as that shown in the upper picture.

Life is an unfoldment, and the further we travel the more truth we comprehend. To understand the things that are at our doors is the best preparation for understanding those that lie beyond.

NEWSPAPER BEST MEDIUM FOR ADVERTISING—TIGERT

There is no doubt but that the newspaper affords the best advertising medium, Dr. J. J. Tigert told members of the Board of Commerce—University of Kentucky advertising instruction class at its weekly meeting Tuesday night in the offices of the Board of Commerce at Lexington. "The Newspaper as an Advertising Medium," was the subject. In taking up newspaper advertising Dr. Tigert took specimens from Lexington and Blue Grass papers as subjects for discussion. It was agreed that the newspaper ad to be effective, must attract attention and be easily read.

Business and professional men read the morning newspapers more frequently than afternoon papers, and the reverse is true with the laboring classes, he said.

It was brought out at the meeting that in a fabrication conducted in Chicago found that most people buy newspapers for local news. Seventeen per cent. subscribe for or buy newspapers for this reason. In the order of their importance with the readers of the newspapers, it was found that the various features which compose the modern newspapers, stand in order as follows: Local, political, financial, foreign news, editorials, general news, ethical tone, sporting news, cartoons, special articles, book reviews, arrangements, society, news, advertisements, fiction stories, humor.

Members of the class will hold an ad writing contest at the next meeting and each student will prepare an ad for his business and bring it for criticism of the class.

Senator Borah is right when he tells his Republican colleagues that it is by the present Congress and not by the rhetoric of an unofficial committee that his party will be judged in the coming campaign.

Public Sale

As agents for the owner, W. W. Clark, the undersigned will on beginning promptly at 10:30 o'clock offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, on the premises, on the Winchester pike, the following property:

Farm of 95 6-10 acres on the Winchester and Mt. Sterling pike, four miles from Mt. Sterling, in Montgomery County. Nearly one-half of this farm is in grass. Fifteen acres last year sown to rye and never cut, and is now ready for tobacco. Sixteen acres in corn and eight acres in oat stubble suitable for cultivation this year.

A good ten-room brick house with all necessary outbuildings, such as ice house, meat house, and an excellent house for servant. A new 12-acre tobacco barn with a fine stripping room. A good stock barn with twelve stalls and feeding sheds. In the stock barn there is ample room for another 5 acres of tobacco. At the house there is a most excellent cistern. Adjoining the stock barn is a large cistern with pump, and adjacent thereto is an extra good corn crib.

This farm is well watered by never failing springs and Somerset Creek.

A macadam road in first-class shape leads directly from the pike to the house and barn.

This land lies in one of the best sections of Montgomery County, lays good and is well fenced.

Terms made known on day of sale.

Immediately after the land sale 100 shocks good feeding corn will be sold for the High Dollar

WOMEN WILL HELP WITH DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Washington, D. C.—The announcement by Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National Committee of the personnel of the Committee on Arrangements for the Democratic National Convention, to be held at San Francisco June 28, revealed that for the first time in the history of major political parties women will have a hand in the preliminary arrangements of a presidential nominating convention.

Mrs. George Bass, of Chicago, and Miss May E. Foy, of Los Angeles, are the two women named, along with fifteen male members of the National Committee, to select the temporary chairman, make up the temporary roll and otherwise perfect the convention plans. Mrs. Bass is the Illinois member of the Woman's Associate National Committee, as well as chairman of the Woman's Bureau at National Democratic headquarters. Miss Foy is the California member of the Woman's Associate Committee.

Under the resolution adopted by the National Committee at its meeting here on January 8, Chairman Homer S. Cummings, member from Connecticut, will head the Committee on convention arrangements. Others on the committee are J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana; Wilbur W. March, of Iowa; Edward G. Hoffman, of Indiana; Clark Howell, of Georgia; Norman E. Mack, of New York; Fred B. Lynch, of Minnesota; Charles Boeschenstein, of Illinois; E. H. Moore, of Ohio; Arthur F. Mullen, of Nebraska; Dr. John W. Coughlin, of Massachusetts; Isidore B. Dockweiler, of California; John T. Barnett, of Colorado; Patrick H. Quinn, of Rhode Island, and Robert H. Elder, of Idaho.

The long-foretold business slump seems to have begun. Several boozecure sanatoriums have gone into bankruptcy.

Diogenes, however, wasn't the only loafer who thought the rest of the world is crooked.

An admiral who pleased the English and a British diplomat who displeased a great many Americans are among the friends and favorites of some Republican champions of "Americanism."

After a man has nibbled, it often requires a shrewd girl to land him. The trouble seems to be that the girls let them nibble too long. They should be landed high and dry at the first bite.

A Williamson Pipeless
Furnace will make
Your Home Comfortable

A WILLIAMSON Pipeless Furnace brings to your home the comfort of heat without the bother of stoves or grates. A single register supplies all the heat required for any ordinary home.

The Williamson Pipeless Furnace

can be easily installed in old or new homes without tearing up floors and walls for pipes and flues. It goes into the cellar but does not heat it.

All the heat is saved to make warmth—there's no waste. It burns any fuel and less of it. It solved the heating question in hundreds of farm homes last winter. Come in and see this practical and economical furnace. The name "Williamson" guarantees its dependability.

The religion of the pessimist is based on the belief that most things are too good to be true.

The right will triumph, but one of the hardest things in the world is to make the loser realize it.

This is a mighty uncertain world. Don't go around bragging that you didn't have to pay to get in. It might cost you quite a wad to get out.

After you meet some men the impression that they leave is that they were too busy talking to say anything.

You get what you expose yourself to—and then some.
